Leadership Programs:

1. In alignment with the National Urban League's commitment to economic empowerment in August 2013, 180 attendees, 30 speakers and 15 volunteers gathered at the 5th Annual Entrepreneur Bootcamp. During this daylong conference, participants received guidance and training from key leaders in the metro Atlanta business community during workshop sessions, where they discussed various aspects of business ownership.

- o Highlights:

- Skype tweeted in support of the Entrepreneur Bootcamp after the opening speaker, Chris Cooper delivered his presentation via Skype in Los Angeles (pictured below)

- Social innovator, serial entrepreneur, investor and author Rodney Sampson shared his insight into entrepreneurship, investment and crowd funding as the keynote speaker!
- Survey Results:
 - “I really enjoyed today's session and will encourage others to attend future ULGA - YP events!”
 - “The opportunity to connect and build new relationships with young professionals; get answers to some key questions to help out me on the road to a successful business!”
 - “The presenters gave valuable info that I can put to use immediately; not sugar-coated or too abstract

2. Our commitment to developing leaders and creating a successful succession plan includes chapter leadership programs as well as participation in National Urban League leadership programs. In October 2013, the Urban League of Greater Atlanta - Young Professionals covered the conference registration costs for The Whitney M. Young Jr. Leadership Development Conference for eight ULGA-YP Executive Board members and four general members that expressed interest in ULGA-YP leadership.

3. In the final session of a six part series, the Urban League of Greater Atlanta – Young Professionals hosted an “Evening With Microsoft” on October 17, 2013. These one-hour FREE workshops were designed to help our members get a better understanding of the Microsoft products and services. The final session covered the Creating Professional Documents Effortlessly & Designing Effective Presentations ☐☐

4. 5th Annual Young Professionals Day at the Capitol accomplishes our promise to provide opportunities for our members to understand the political process and become more civically engaged. Over 30 young professionals participated in this full day of presentations from State Representative Alisha T. Morgan, District 39; State Representative Michael Smith, District 41; State Representative LaDawn Jones, District 62; Sam Olens, Attorney General of Georgia and Secretary of State Brian Kemp and the opportunity for Young Professionals to advocate on behalf of the issues that affect them directly with their district representative.

Ciji Tatum has the Urban League movement engrained in her heart! She actively works alongside her affiliate CEO and Guild President to align on fundraising initiatives, programming and identifying opportunities to address the needs of the Metro Atlanta community. Outside of her role as President of the Urban League of Greater Atlanta - Young Professionals she serves on the Urban League of Greater Atlanta Executive Board as the Marketing Committee chairperson and was the 2013 Equal Opportunity Day Dinner co-chairperson; the signature fundraiser for the ULGA. Ciji actively connects with her peers to grow in the movement and helped to facilitate $100,000 in donations to the New York, Philadelphia, Charlotte and New Orleans young professionals and has participated in service projects alongside the Texas and Nashville young professional chapters.

Since joining the Urban League of Greater Atlanta - Young Professionals in January 2012, Ashley has hit the ground running. She immediately joined the Political Awareness Committee and participated in several voter registration drives. She then filled a need for the organization and was appointed the Membership Chairperson and gave countless hours to the movement planning and executing two Join Weeks, providing strategic direction for membership retention, hosting New Member Orientations and managing the ULGA-YP website. As if her plate was not already full, she then joined the National Urban League Young Professionals membership committee and played a key role in the Join Week webinar in October 2013. In addition to her leadership, she represented ULGA-YP at the 50th Anniversary of the March on Washington and is a great example of living the #WeGotNow mantra.

At a time when Kofi was experiencing personal challenges, instead of stepping away from the Urban League movement, he embraced it and committed more time to ensuring that metro Atlantans were registered to vote and aware of the political landscape. As the Political Awareness Chairperson, he led an engaged committee to execute over 30 voter registration drives and register 736 people. His regional peers recognized his work and as a result he was asked to attend the 2013 National Urban League conference and give a presentation on voter registration best practices! His work was recognized locally when he was awarded the Champion of Equality award by the Urban League of Greater Atlanta. Kofi lives the empowerment agenda daily and strives to ensure that all know how powerful the Urban League movement is.
